Section 1 – Overview

P1.1 – Definition of domestic parcels

The conditions of service of domestic parcels apply to all places within Australia. The following places are within Australia:

- Lord Howe Island NSW 2898
- Australian Antarctic Territory TAS 7151
- Territory of Heard Island and McDonald Islands TAS 7151.

The conditions also apply to:

- Christmas Island (Indian Ocean) WA 6798
- Cocos (Keeling) Islands WA 6799
- Norfolk Island NSW 2899.

All parcel charges to Christmas Island (6798), Cocos (Keeling) Islands (6799) Norfolk Island (2899) and the Australian Antarctic Territories (7151), except postage prepaid products, are GST free.

P1.2 – What is a parcel?

The following guidelines apply to non-contract parcels. Different size restrictions may apply to contract parcels as detailed in individual Business Parcel Contracts.

Maximum	Specification
Weight	22kg. Refer to P1.2.1 .
Length	The greatest linear dimension must not exceed 105cm. Refer to P1.2.2 .
Cubic dimension	The maximum cubic dimension must not exceed 0.25m ³ . Refer to P1.2.3 .

Check our size and weight guidelines for details at auspost.com.au/business/shipping/check-sending-guidelines/size-weight-guidelines.

P1.2.1 – Maximum weight

The maximum allowed weight of a parcel lodged at a Post Office is 22kg.

In some instances a Post Office may not have capacity to weigh parcels up to 22kg. In these instances, the Post Office will accept the parcel if a charge can be agreed to, if not, the Post Office may refuse to accept the parcel.

P1.2.2 – Maximum length

The length of the greatest linear dimension of a parcel lodged at a Post Office must not exceed 105cm.

P1.2.3 – Maximum dimension

The maximum cubic dimension must not exceed 0.25m³. If the parcel is box-shaped, both its length and width must be at least 5cm.

P1.2.4 – Cubing

For parcels over 1kg Australia Post will assess charges according to their actual weight or cubic weight equivalent, whichever is greater. The cubic weight is the parcel's volume in cubic metres multiplied by 250. Australia Post reserves the right to also apply cubic charges to a parcel weighing less than 1kg, and this will be more likely in instances where a parcel is large in size or irregular or cylindrical in shape.

■ How is cubic weight calculated?

Cubic weight is calculated by measuring and multiplying the length, height and the width of the parcel. The result is then multiplied by a cubic weight conversion factor of 250.

e.g. a parcel weighing 10kg but measuring –

50cm long, 30cm high and 40cm wide

$$(0.5\text{m}) \times (0.3\text{m}) \times (0.4\text{m})$$

$$= 0.06\text{m} \times 250$$

$$= 15$$

The example parcel has a cubic weight of 15kg and therefore postage would be assessed on the basis of 15kg despite the actual weight.

P1.3 – Domestic parcels architecture

The domestic parcel product architecture has been designed to standardise and simplify our product range and to give our customers greater flexibility and choice; offering three core products based on estimated delivery speed – same business day, next business day and regular (2+ business days).

The customer can then select the optional features relevant for the parcel they are sending. Separating optional features from the core product enables customers to create their own parcel solution by purchasing the features they value. Please note some features are only available for customers who hold a contract with Australia Post.

P6.8 – Delivery of parcels to a Secure Parcel Receptacle (SPR)

P6.8.1 – Description of a Secure Parcel Receptacle

A Secure Parcel Receptacle (SPR) means a receptacle, of any size, shape and material that is designed for the delivery to and storing of parcels and is able to be completely locked or secured against unsolicited third party access (and which is not a ‘mail box’ as described in Appendix 2 of the Australia Post Terms and Conditions). Refer auspost.com.au/general-terms-conditions.html.

■ Delivery of articles to a Secure Parcel Receptacle

Where Australia Post is requested to deliver an article to an SPR, it shall do so in accordance with the Australia Post Terms and Conditions and as described further in this section.

Australia Post may not be able to deliver an article to an SPR for a number of reasons, including (but not limited to):

- compromised safety of Australia Post delivery staff and contractors
- inability to easily access the SPR
- the size of the article exceeding the size of the SPR
- insufficient space due to the presence of other articles within the SPR
- requirement for signature on delivery
- special delivery instructions required by merchants that do not allow for delivery to an SPR.

Where an article is addressed to an SPR (refer to P6.8.5) and does not require a Signature on Delivery (refer to P6.8.7), Australia Post will attempt to deliver the article to the SPR in the first instance.

If Australia Post is unable to deliver the article to the SPR for any reason, Australia Post will attempt delivery to the door of the premises and if this is not possible, Australia Post will attempt to safe drop the article (in accordance with the definition of ‘delivery’ in the Australia Post Terms and Conditions). If the article cannot be safe dropped then Australia Post will leave a card at the premises advising the addressee that the article will be available for collection from an office of Australia Post.

P6.8.2 – Regular mail deliveries

An SPR is not a substitute for the usual mail delivery arrangement to the premises ie a mailbox in an approved location that is used for regular mail deliveries.

P6.8.3 – Security of an article delivered to a Secure Parcel Receptacle

Australia Post takes no responsibility for the security of and access to SPRs and in accordance with its Terms and Conditions, Australia Post has no liability for loss or damage to articles delivered to SPRs.

If at any time, Australia Post believes that the security of the article will be compromised by delivery into an SPR, the article is too big for the dimensions of the SPR, or there is nowhere to safe drop the article, or for any other reason, in its absolute discretion Australia Post reserves the right to not deliver the article and to leave a card at the premises advising the addressee that the article will be available for collection from an office of Australia Post.

P6.8.4 – Damage or loss of articles delivered to a Secure Parcel Receptacle

Australia Post does not control the functionality of or access to the SPR and as such cannot guarantee the security of an article left in an SPR.

Australia Post takes no responsibility for the security of and access to SPRs and in accordance with its Terms and Conditions Australia Post has no liability for loss or damage to articles delivered to SPRs.

P6.8.5 – How to organise delivery of an article to a Secure Parcel Receptacle

To address an article to an SPR, the sender must provide handwritten or labelled delivery instructions on the article advising that the article is to be delivered to an SPR. These delivery instructions must include access details such as a PIN or other combination required to open the receptacle. For example (and in accordance with the ‘Correct Addressing Standards’ set out in Appendix 1 of the Australia Post Terms and Conditions):

John Citizen
Secure Parcel Receptacle PIN 1234
10 Smith Street
MELBOURNE VIC 3000

P6.8.6 – Access to Secure Parcel Receptacles

Australia Post’s preferred method of access to an SPR is to have an already open receptacle that its staff and/or contractors would close after delivery.

The secure receptacle must not require a key for access.

Australia Post employees and contractors will not keep keys, PIN codes, other mechanisms or information required to open the SPR.

P6.8.7 – Signature on Delivery

Australia Post will not deliver an article requiring ‘Signature on Delivery’ to an SPR.

In all cases, a requirement for Signature on Delivery will over-ride an instruction to deliver the article to an SPR.

P6.8.8 – Placement of Secure Parcel Receptacle

The SPR must be:

- placed in an obvious, clearly identified / labelled and easily accessible location on the ground floor at the front of the block (eg beside the front door). It must not be situated behind side gates etc. in a location that requires Australia Post to access the “rear” of the premises
- in a location that provides adequate lighting to enable the operation of the SPR by Australia Post
- accessible via a direct route within the block of land – to ensure the ability to deliver quickly and to avoid access and security concerns by neighbours.

The top of the door / opening to the SPR is not to be further than 1,400mm in height from the ground / floor / hard standing.

P6.8.9 – Hazards

Any SPR must:

- not have any sharp edges, protruding screws, rivets, etc. that may provide a safety hazard
- be accessed by a route that is clear of hazards (eg tree branches, etc.) and via hard / paved ground that is free of any tripping hazards.

Australia Post reserves the right to not deliver the article and follow the processes set out above if there are any hazards (eg unrestrained dogs or any of the above) that create an unsafe environment for Australia Post staff in accordance with Australia Post's security and occupational health and safety requirements.

P6.8.10 – Safety

Any structure that Australia Post staff and contractors are required to access (eg stairways, verandas, etc.) must be habitable and pass building regulations. The household / business have a responsibility to provide a safe working environment.

P6.8.11 – Roadside and remote delivery arrangements

In general, the delivery instruction to deliver to an SPR may be followed where possible but this does not include delivery to the homestead where that is not normally performed. In these instances, the SPR should be placed close to the boundary line / fence and in accordance with the guidelines in section P6.8.8.

Section 7 – Preparation of domestic parcels articles

P7.1 – Addressing

The address on a parcel must conform to the standard below.

- Legible
- Include the locality, state and postcode
- “Recipient” address must be clearly distinguishable from the “Return address” i.e. use larger text for the “Recipient” address or place the “Return Address” on the opposite face of the parcel.

The following table provides recommendations for addressing parcels.

Address component	Position and format
Name of addressee	First line of address
“Attention of:” or other reference details	Second, and if necessary, third line of address
Street address, box number, or locked bag number	Second last line of the address and contains no punctuation or underlining
Locality name or the name of the office of delivery	The first component of the last line of the address. It must be in UPPER CASE letters and contain no punctuation or underlining
The State or Territory abbreviation	The second component of the last line of the address. It must be in UPPER CASE letters and contain no punctuation or underlining
The postcode	The third component of the last line of the address. It must be in UPPER CASE letters and contain no punctuation or underlining

Note: The correct positioning and layout of the “locality, state and postcode” in the address line is important for sorting requirements.

Example:

Mr A Sample
Australia Post
Business Manager
Suite 4
Level 14 111 Bourke Street
MELBOURNE VIC 3000

Refer to section P6.8.5 for addressing of articles to Secure Parcel Receptacles (SPRs).

P7.1.1 – Addressing of plastic-wrapped parcels

Senders may affix an address label to the outside of the plastic cover or under the plastic cover. If it is under the plastic cover, the address label must:

- remain fixed in position during postal carriage
- remain visible and legible through the plastic at all times during carriage.

P7.2 – General packaging considerations

Dangerous and prohibited goods and packaging guide (8833729) contains the requirements for packaging articles. In general, all parcels must be made-up and packed to:

- prevent injury to any person handling the parcel
- prevent the contents escaping and damaging other postal articles
- prevent damage to equipment and vehicles, particularly aircraft
- protect the contents from loss or damage caused by the stress of handling and carriage
- protect the contents from loss or damage caused by extremes of climate.

Australia Post staff are pleased to advise customers on the best ways of packing particular items and to recommend suitable Australia Post packaging products.

P7.3 – Some useful packing pointers

P7.3.1 – Containers

■ Strength of container material

Strong cardboard, fibreboard or wood are generally satisfactory materials for the manufacture of containers such as boxes, cartons or mailing tubes, but the necessary strength depends on the mass, size and nature of the articles in the container. A range of Australia Post packaging products is available to suit most purposes.

■ Size of container

If a container is too large for its contents, pack all spare space with cushioning material such as bubble-wrap to prevent the contents shifting or receiving sudden jolts during carriage.

■ Recommended cushioning materials

Pack any items needing special protection with adequate cushioning to ensure they can withstand the rigours of postal transmission. Make sure that:

- the contents are protected from outside pressure on the parcel
- if the parcel contains two or more items, wrap and pack each item separately and then cushion each item to protect it from damaging the others.

Cushioning materials should be light and readily able to absorb pressure and impact. Suitable materials include:

- bubble-wrap
- cellulose materials
- corrugated cardboard
- cotton
- felt pads
- fibreboard
- foam peanuts
- polystyrene
- shredded paper
- tissue paper
- wood wool.

P7.3.2 – Tapes

Polypropylene tape is usually adequate when applied carefully.

P7.3.3 – Wrapping

Use only heavy-grade wrapping paper for all but small light parcels. If a parcel contains several items or a stack of items, do not rely on the wrapping to hold everything together. It is likely to tear or break under pressure. Firmly tie or tape the items or the stack together before you apply the outer wrapping.

P7.3.4 – Australia Post packaging products

The payment of a compensation or Extra Cover claim for a parcel depends on the use of adequate packaging. The range of Australia Post packaging products is approved as adequate packaging. For the range and prices, refer to the Post charges booklet (8833665) or the current Australia Post Stationery & Mailing Supplies Catalogue.

Australia Post may refuse to accept a parcel, even if the sender uses an Australia Post packaging product, if:

- the packaging product is inappropriate to its contents and is used or fastened incorrectly
- the packaging product has been used previously
- the contents are fragile – such as fine glassware, clay figures, soapstone, or alabaster – and are inadequately protected by sufficient internal shock-absorbing material, such as bubble-wrap
- the contents are likely to perish or become physically offensive during the ordinary course of carriage
- Australia Post has specific packaging requirements for the contents – such as liquids, poisons, and so on – and the sender has not met these requirements.

Refer to Dangerous and prohibited goods and packaging guide (8833729) for the Australia Post packaging requirements for specific goods.

P7.3.5 – Plastic wrapping and covers

Australia Post accepts parcels enclosed in plastic wrapping or covers if they meet the specifications below.

■ Conditions of use

Senders may enclose a parcel in a plastic wrapping or cover if:

- all articles in the cover are securely bound, taped or tied together as well as wrapped
- the plastic material complies with the below plastic specifications
- the welds, if any, must be as strong as the parent material.

■ Plastic specification

Plastics can cause problems with some postal operations. In general, medium impact-resistant, anti-static polyethylene is suitable if its attributes fall within the limits shown in the following table.

Attribute	Value	Comments
Thickness	A minimum of 35µm	Recommended values for polyethylene are: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • 50µm for articles up to 500 grams • 100µm for articles over 500 grams
Impact strength	Equal to 50µm film	Refer to AS 1326 – 1972
Tearing resistance	At least 450mN in any direction	Refer to AS TMD1922 – 1989
Kinetic coefficient of friction	Between 0.2 and 0.4	Refer to AS 1326 – 1972
Gloss level	60 units ± 10 per cent	Refer to AS 1326 – 1972

You may use a material other than polyethylene if it meets this specification. Domestic cling wrap and recycled plastic bags are not acceptable. You may send a sample (0.6m × 1.6m) for testing to:
