Inside Australian Online Shopping update

October 2020
Online shopping remains strong

Six months into the pandemic, and online shopping growth has topped 75.8% year-on-year (Y.O.Y.).

While September saw weaker growth than August, down 5%, online purchases were still up 7.2% when compared to the 2019 pre-Christmas peak\(^1\) and on par with April 2020.

Nationally, growth for September was up 82% Y.O.Y.

Victoria retains its title as the nation's online shopping capital with over a third (36%) of total online purchase volume last month (September), followed by New South Wales at 29%. September also welcomed over 125,000 new household shoppers, an increase of 1.6% compared to 2019 – the lowest monthly increase since the pandemic began.

Overall between March and September, more than 1 million new households shopped online.

\(^1\)Pre-Christmas peak measured as the 30 days to 18 Dec 2019 inclusive.
National online growth stabilising

After the initial online buying surge in April, online growth has begun to stabilise nationally.

All categories have performed well since April, with Home & Garden and Food & Liquor recording the strongest growth over this period.

The Australian industry continues to operate at two-speeds given differing levels of restrictions between Victoria and the rest of Australia.

In Victoria, where most stores are closed, online growth remained high in September, with all categories growing above 100% YOY.
Christmas set to shatter records eCommerce has grown so much during COVID-19, that the Australian market has found a new normal.

The last seven months have seen sustained growth that is comparable to the 2019 pre-Christmas peak.

There is no doubt the industry is hurtling towards the biggest peak in online shopping history.

What will the Cyber sales and Christmas bring?

In 2019 Black Friday & Cyber Monday grew 31.6% YOY.

So far in 2020 we have:

- More households shopping online than ever before;
- More regular and frequent shoppers. Both new and regular households have shopped over 1.7 times more than in 2019

Both factors set the foundation for a record-breaking sale.
Buying Christmas gifts online early

7% of shoppers have already purchased their Christmas gifts, while a further 16% intend to buy this month (October).

The majority (58%) said they will do most of their online Christmas shopping either in November or in the first week of December.

The same survey also revealed a quarter of people indicated they will send most gifts directly from the retailer to their intended recipients, saving time.

Therefore, offering a gift-wrapping service at check-out will be important this year and it presents an opportunity to delight and acquire a new customer.

A special message and discount card with the purchase could go a long way towards enticing the recipient to visit the online shop themselves.
